236-38-SM—Vol. II

APPLICANT—United States Gypsum Co., owner.

APPEARANCES—

For Applicant: W. W. Bainbridge.

ACTION OF BOARD—Application reopened and Resolution amended in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Vice Chairman Kleinert, Commissioner Sleeper, Commissioner Fox and Commissioner Becker 4

Negative: ..... 0

Absent: Chairman Foley ..... 1

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 236-38-SM-Vol. II—Amendment to resolution as to additional construction and fire rating.

W. W. Bainbridge for United States Gypsum Co requested that the resolution adopted February 27, 1940 and amended through January 26, 1960 under Calendar Number 236-38-SM Vols. I & II be reopened and amended so as to include an additional fire resistive rating.

USE: Incombustible roof deck, having 2 hour fire resistive rating with no ceiling below, and 3 hours with a suspended lath and plaster ceiling.

DESCRIPTION: The present construction for a 2 hour fire endurance rating is identical to previously approved construction, except that the 12 gauge x 14 gauge x 4" x 8" wire fabric reinforcing is dimpled so as to hold the fabric approximately 1/2" from the 1/2" gypsum formboard, and 2 1/2" of Pyrofill gypsum concrete is then poured over the formboard, completely embedding the mesh and the bulb tees. The total thickness of the slab is 3" including the formboard. The underside of the bulb tees or ASCE rails (spaced 32 5/8" o.c.) are unprotected.

The gypsum formboard is 1" x 24".

INSPECTION AND TEST: A fire endurance test was conducted at the National Bureau of Standards, Report No. 406, which is on file with and is part of the record, on a Poured-in-Place Gypsum Roof Deck slab. The construction included bulb tee rails spaced 32 5/8" o.c. welded on alternate sides to three steel beams, which were placed within the furnace. 1/2" x 32" wide gypsum formboard (previously approved) was placed on the top of the lower flange of the bulb tees; dimpled wire reinforcing mesh, described above, was placed over the formboard and bulb tees and 2 1/2" (measured from top of formboard) Poured-in-Place gypsum concrete was poured over the construction. The beam protection, previously approved, consisted of reinforced gypsum concrete poured solidly around the lower three sides of the beams to a thickness of 2 inches from the edges and bottom of the beam flanges. There was no ceiling below this construction; the bottom flanges of the bulb tees were exposed to the fire.

The construction was tested for fire endurance in accordance with the provisions of ASTM E119 and the Administrative Building Code and failed at 2 hours 18 minutes due to temperature rise of one thermocouple on the unexposed side.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the test reports and data furnished by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted February 27, 1940 and amended at various times through January 26, 1960 under Calendar Number 236-38-SM—Vols. I and II be further amended as to an unprotected gypsum roof deck with not less than 2 1/2" gypsum concrete over an incombustible formboard as providing 2 hours fire resistance for roofs and floors of Class 2 construction, as provided under Section C26-240.0 and previously approved constructions protected with a 3 hour lath and plaster ceiling, (as provided under Section 26-575.0, provided 3 hours fire resistance for floors and/or roofs in Class I and all other classes of construction and further when the formboard is wood fiber (fire treated) the limitations shall be as follows:

| Class of Construction | Ceiling Area (sq. ft.) |
|-----------------------|------------------------|
| 1                     | 5,000*                 |
| 2                     | 5,000*                 |
| 3                     | 6,000                  |
| 4                     | no limit               |
| 5                     | 6,000                  |
| 6                     | 6,000                  |

* In school building where the ceiling is 20 ft. clear above the floor these areas may be increased 50%, provided that all other provisions of the resolution adopted February 27, 1940 and amended at various times through January 26, 1960 under Calendar Number 236-38-SA—Vol. II be compiled with.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

294-52-SM—Vol. II—National Brick Corporation filed for approval of the Nabcor Steam Cured Sand-Grit Concrete Units under the provisions of Section C26-476 Administrative Building Code and Rule 9.3 of the Masonry Rules of the Board. The application was dismissed for lack of prosecution but was reopened at the request of the applicant under Calendar Number 294-52-SM—Vol. II.

USE: To be used as filler blocks in one and two way ribbed floor construction.

DESCRIPTION: The units are composed of a mixture of approved portland cement and fine and coarse aggregate consisting of sand and grits. The mixture is placed in metal forms and mechanically tamped in several stages during the pouring. On removal of the forms the blocks are then steam cured under a pressure of 150 p.s.i. The blocks are 16" by 8" wide and with varying depths as required by the design. Each block has one open end, the other end having a back wall integral with the block. In use they will be generally placed in pairs with the open ends abutting, thus forming a square unit 16" x 16" in size which is closed on all sides.

In the case of a two way panel the direction of the joints between individual blocks is alternated to obtain symmetrical sections in both directions. In a one way construction, the joints are always parallel to the span direction. The reinforcement is placed in the concrete ribs. The first layer of bottom bars is supported and kept at the proper distance from the forms by means of chairs and the second layer is placed on top of the first layer of bars. Two bars per rib are generally used in the center half of the panel, one of which runs the entire length of the span and the other stopped at a point  $\frac{1}{8}$  of the span from continuous supports only. The remaining ribs in outer quarters of the panel are provided with one bar per rib running the full length of span, thus bent bars are eliminated except where blocks are omitted for special opening.

To provide continuity over supports, separate straight bars are used. These are centered over the supports and are kept in position near the top of the slab by means of special hangers. The top bars extend to the  $\frac{1}{4}$  points of adjacent spans with the sectional area as required by design. At non-continuous edges such as spandrel beams, interior or other openings, one anchor bar is placed in the top of every rib. These bars are hooked at one end and are also supported by special hangers. For electric or other fixtures, one block may be omitted and the space filled around the fixture with concrete.

The function of the block in a slab:

In order to develop a value for the structural contribution of the blocks as they function in ribbed floor construction, it is necessary to show the relationship between the blocks and the concrete in the rib using the principle of Hooke's Law. The following formula may be derived:

$E_b$  = Modules of Elasticity Block.

$E_c$  = Modules of Elasticity Concrete.

$E_u$  = Composite of Elasticity of block and concrete ribs.

$P_a$  = Average unit Stress in outer fiber of combined joist.

$P_u$  = Average unit Stress in outer fiber of concrete cross rib and block but limited to  $S_i$  on account of concrete cross ribs.

$S_i$  = Allowable concrete stress in flexure under the Code.

$\Delta c$  = Shortening of concrete ribs.

$\Delta u$  = Shortening of concrete rigs and blocks combined.

$$N = \frac{E_u}{E_c}$$

To determine  $E_u$

$$\Delta c = \frac{P_c + 20Q}{E_c} \quad \Delta u = \frac{P_u + 16Q}{E_b} + \frac{P_u + 16Q}{E_c}$$

$$\text{Since } \Delta c = \Delta u \therefore \frac{P_c}{E_c} = P_u \left\{ \frac{4}{5E_b} + \frac{1}{5E_c} \right\} = \frac{P_u}{E_u}$$

$$\text{Then } \frac{1}{E_u} = \frac{4}{5E_b} + \frac{1}{5E_c} \text{ \& } E_u = \frac{5E_b E_c}{4E_c + E_b}$$ from the above it appears that the fiber stress in the composite section bears the relation  $\frac{E_u}{E_c} = N$  to that in the concrete rib.

to determine  $P_a$

$$\frac{P_c}{E_c} = \frac{P_u}{E_u}; \frac{P_c P}{P_u} = \frac{E_c}{E_u} = \frac{1}{N}; P_c = \frac{P_u}{N} \text{ \& } P_u = P_{cn}$$

Where  $N$  is more than unity then the total stress in the top layer of combined concrete and composite section:

$$4P_c + 16 P_u = 20 P_a \text{ then } \frac{4P_u}{N} + 16 P_u = 20 P_a \text{ and}$$

Therefore when the modulus of elasticity of the block is less than that of the concrete in the rib, the stress in the outer fiber of the composite section (block & concrete rib) must be limited to the permitted value in flexure as provided in the Administrative Code for the class of concrete used.

When  $N$  is less than unity then

$$4 P_c + 16 P_u = 20 P_a \text{ then } 4 P_c + 16 P_{cn} = 20 P_a$$

$$P_c (1 + 4N) = 5 P_a \quad P_a = \frac{P_c (1 + 4N)}{5} \text{ Then}$$

$$\text{equating } P_c \text{ \& } S_i = \quad P_a = \frac{S_i (1 + 4N)}{5}$$

Therefore when the modulus of elasticity of the concrete in the rib is less than that of the block, then the stress in the outer fiber of the rib must be limited to the permitted value in flexure as provided in the Administrative Code for the class of concrete used.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Compressive tests and tests to determine the modulus of elasticity were conducted on the blocks at Manhattan College and the modulus was found to be 2,400,000. The complete report is on file with and is part of the record.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON TEST

Re: Calendar Number 39-59-SM

Subject: GAT Rod Hanger Clamp, 1A through 5A, 1B through 5B, 1C through 7C.

George A. Tinnerman, Corp., Cleveland, Ohio, filed January 20, 1959, an application with the Board of Standards and Appeals for approval of GAT Rod Hanger Clamp, 1A through 5A, 1B through 5B, 1C through 7C, for voluntary use in New York City under the provisions of Section C26-461.0 (8.4.10.5.1) Administrative Building Code.

Purpose

The GAT Rod Hanger Clamp, quickly hammered into secure position, may be used for hanging suspended ceiling channels, conduit, fluorescent fixtures, ducts, pipe lines, and similar mechanicals from steel beams and joists.

Description

GAT Rod Hanger Clamp is a one-piece high carbon heat treated fastener made of 1060 steel which provides a means for securing a rod of a given size to a beam flange without the necessity of drilling any holes, welding or the use of any tools other than the hammer to install.

The clamp is so designed as to provide a secure gripping of the rod by teeth which are formed in the spring steel. These teeth provide a positive locking action on the rod which is driven onto these teeth. The assembly is then driven onto a beam and is so designed to provide a stable and securely locked attachment of the rod to the beam flange and will not loosen under vibration because of the constant spring tension of the clamp against the beam. The lower portion of the clamp is provided with teeth which track the legs inward to provide an even more secure locking of the rod into the beam.

The clamp is also designed for securing 1/4" x 1" steel strap by means of a slot cut into the bottom of the fastener through which the strap can be hooked and secured.

Along with the above feature, there is a built in "go" and "no go" gauge on each part as provided by slots at the end of the legs. These slots are used to check beam thickness to insure the installer that the right size clamp is being used on the beam flange.

The following chart indicates the various sizes and limits of the GAT Rod Hanger Clamps.

113-59-SA—Dornback Furnace and Foundry, Cleveland, Ohio, filed for approval of the Cleveland-Dornback Gas Fired Heating Equipment, Models CDH, CDC, DA, DCF, SA, SG, S, UP and IN, also to be marketed as Quik Heat Gas Fired Heating Equipment, Models QHDA, QHUP and QHIN under the provisions of Article 12, Administrative Building Code.

This report will cover only the furnaces. The Committee on test is of the opinion that the gas fired incinerator, Models S and QH and the conversion gas burners, Models UP and IN or QHUP and QHIN, should be filed for, separately on two other applications.

USE: Warm air heating furnaces for domestic or commercial use except in places of explosive atmospheres.

DESCRIPTION: The Model CDH furnace is a Hi-Boy floor type of cabinet unit consisting of heavy cast iron slotted burners installed beneath a welded steel heat exchanger with a built-in draft diverter for flue connection. A belt driven Sirocco type blower fan and filters are included for forced air circulation.

The controls consist of a gas pressure regulator, safety pilot and automatic gas valve, fan and limit control and a thermostat.

The CDH furnace is made with ratings of 70,000, 105,000, 135,000, 165,000 and 200,000 Btu per hr. input.

The CDC furnace is similar to the CDH model, except that it is designed for counter flow of heated air. In addition to the other ratings it is made in a 50,000 Btu per hr. size.

The DA furnace is a cabinet type unit designed for floor installation. The burners are porcelain enameled raised multi-port type and the heat exchanger is of welded steel with vertical heat transfer tubes. Combustion products are exhausted through a flue. Blower fan and filter are provided.

Controls include safety pilot and automatic valve, pressure regulating valve, fan and limit control and thermostat.

The DA furnace is made in seven sizes; 65,000; 81,250; 97,000; 113,750; 130,000; 146,250; and 162,500; Btu per hr. input.

The DCF furnace is similar to the DA furnace except that it is designed for counter flow of heated air. An additional limit control is installed in the blower compartment.

The SA furnace is a floor type cabinet unit made in eight different sizes. Three types of burners are employed. A cast iron mono-port burner in the 80,000; 90,000; and 100,000 Btu sizes; a steel mono-port burner in the 110,000; 125,000 and 155,000 Btu sizes and a cast iron slotted head burner in the 160,000 and 170,000 Btu per hour sizes. The heat exchanger is of welded steel and is cylindrical in design. A belt driven blower fan and filter are provided for forced air circulation. Controls consist of a gas pressure regulator, pilot and main shut off valve, solenoid gas valve, pilotstat, thermostat and fan and limit control.

The SG furnace is a gravity type unit similar to the SA Model but with blower fan compartment removed. It is made in six different sizes and employs cast iron slotted head burners in the 65,000; 80,000; 90,000 and 140,000 Btu input sizes and a steel monoport burner in the 105,000 and 125,000 Btu input sizes. THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 567-59-SM—Indussa Corporation for Cimenteries & Briqueteries Reunies, Brussels, Belgium, filed for approval of the material known as CBR Portland Cement, Types I and II under the provisions of Section C26-312.0 Administrative Building Code. The application was withdrawn, without prejudice, November 24, 1959, and was reopened and restored to the docket, April 5, 1960.

USE: Cement used for concrete and concrete products.

DESCRIPTION: The clinker is manufactured by the wet process and the raw materials used are high lime chalk, low lime chalk, shale clay, iron oxide and gypsum to the extent of 5%.

The quarry which furnishes the chalk is located about one mile from the plant and the chalk is extracted and crushed at the quarry. The crushed chalk is then conveyed to the plant where it is churned with water. This slurry is then wet ground and stored in tanks. The shale and iron oxide are also wet ground and stored in tanks. The mix is drawn from each tank and proportioned into a fifth tank. From this tank, the slurry is fed into the upper end of three rotary kilns. The dried slurry is then air cooled. This clinker and the added gypsum is then ground and the resultant cement is then stocked for shipment.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The plants of the applicant were inspected by a Committee on Test, consisting of Commissioner H. P. Fox and Director W. A. Nolan. The applicant has submitted reports of tests conducted by Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory showing that the cement complies with the ASTM requirements for Type I Portland Cement.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the inspection and the data filed by the applicant, The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as CBR Portland Cement, Type I, for use in New York City under the provisions of Section C26-312.0 Administrative Building Code, on condition that the owner shall submit monthly reports, for a period of six months from the date of this resolution, and annually, thereafter, a certified copy of mill reports certifying that all cement manufactured at the applicant's plant and shipped into New York City complied with all requirements of this resolution including ASTM 150-56 specification. The Committee on Test further recommends that all bulk shipments of the cement shall be adequately protected, during shipment, so as to preclude the possibility of any moisture entering into the spaces in which the cement is stored and all ocean bills of lading shall be stamped "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 567-59-SM."

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 635-59-SM—Door Controls, Inc., Brooklyn, New York, filed for approval of their Emergency Exit Door Lock, Models 11-C and 22-B, under the provisions of Section C26-285.0 Administrative Building Code and Section 272 of the State Labor Law.

USE: An emergency lock for exit doors.

DESCRIPTION: The Model 11-C lock consists of a dead bolt lock mounted on a slide plate which in turn is mounted on a base. A turn of a key throws the dead bolt into the strike or keeper which is mounted on the door frame locking the door against unauthorized entry from the outside.

Emergency egress from within the premises is effected by a push or pressure on a clapper or panic bar, which is connected to the release mechanism. This causes the bolt and slide plate to move horizontally out of the strike or keeper permitting the door to be opened. Releasing the bolt automatically activates a battery-powered horn alarm. The door may only be relocked by use of the key.

The panic bar is 14½ inches in length and carries a strike plate of approximately 25 square inches in area. The plate is lettered "Emergency Exit Only Push to Open and Sound Alarm."

The Model 22-B is similar to the Model 11-C except that the panic bar is made with an additional pull handle to be installed through the door so that it may be opened from the outside. It is intended for doors above the ground floor. The door is labeled "Emergency Alarm Pull to Open."

INSPECTION AND TEST: The data submitted was examined by Ass't. Engr. G. F. Sklenarik.

The Model 11 lock was tested and approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories, App. No. 59C7852. It was noted that the lock opened when a pressure of approximately 10 lbs. was applied to the strike plate.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of Emergency Exit Door Lock, Models 11-C and 22-B, for use in New York City under the provisions of Section C26-285.0 Administrative Building Code and, in specific cases subject to a variation by the Board in such cases under Section 272, Par. 3, of the State Labor Law, provided the device bears a label, permanently affixed, reading "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 635-59-SM."

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

11-60-SA—Ronan & Kunzl Inc., Marshall, Michigan, filed for approval of their Liquid Oxygen, Nitrogen, Argon Customer Converters, Models 300, 300-1, 600, 600-2 and 1200, under the provisions of Article 17, Chapter 19, Administrative Code.

USE: To store liquefied oxygen, nitrogen or argon and to supply such gases under pressure.

DESCRIPTION: These containers are of double wall construction and are vacuum and power insulated.

The inner tank containing the liquid is designed and manufactured in accordance with the ASME Unfired Pressure Vessel Code and is so stamped by a qualified inspector of either Travelers Indemnity Company or Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation Ltd. The inner tank material can be of either aluminum or stainless steel, both suitable for use as pressure vessels with temperatures ranging  $-320^{\circ}\text{F}$  to  $+100^{\circ}\text{F}$ . Each container is inspected by a qualified inspector holding a commission with the National Board of Boiler & Pressure Vessel Inspectors. Each inner container is subjected to the required pressure tests and in addition must pass a 48 hour liquid test prior to leaving the factory.

The outer tank or shell is designed in accordance with ASME code requirements, but is not inspected or stamped as it operates under a vacuum and has a safety rupture device which automatically releases when the internal pressure reaches 8 psig,  $\pm 2$  psig. The outer tank is the jacket for the vacuum and the powder insulation, which is noncombustible.

There are two liquid piping circuits and the controls for each are located within a control cabinet fastened to the outer tank. One circuit allows liquid to flow through a built-in vaporizer (generally referred to as a pressure maintaining coil) which is usually located underneath the tank. This coil picks up heat from the ambient air changing the liquid into gas which is delivered through a regulator into the vapor space above the liquid in the inner tank. The regulator is set to maintain a pre-determined pressure on the liquid and is usually between 80 and 175 psig.

The second circuit allows liquid to flow through a main vaporizer which may be heated by ambient air or circulating heated water. This vaporizer also brings the vapor to near ambient temperatures. A gas regulator following the vaporizer controls the flow of liquid through the vaporizer and maintains a somewhat constant pressure to the customer's final use. This regulator is usually set at some pressure between 50 and 100 psig.

Ambient vaporizers are usually used whenever possible and can be made of finned tubing, horizontal or vertical; vertical extruded tubing with fins extending along vertical axis parallel to liquid flow; plates or panels. When extreme heavy customer demand is required, a water heated vaporizer may be used with heat obtained from electrical immersion heaters.

Safety relief valves are incorporated in the liquid and gas phase lines of the inner vessel and are set to relieve well below the design pressure. Rupture discs protected against the possibility of flying fragments back up to these relief valves in case of malfunction and burst well below the test pressure.

The annular space between the inner tank and outer jacket is protected with a foil safety disc and is designed to rupture at 8 psig  $\pm 2$  psig internal pressure.

The control cabinet contains the gages, stainless steel extended stem manual valves, and tank exterior plumbing. A liquid level gage and a tank pressure gage is part of the basic tank. A vacuum sensing tube for use with a vacuum gage to determine the amount of vacuum in the annular space is also included.

Fill lines are protected by suitable safety relief valves and blowout discs. Converter has both top and bottom fill, allowing the unit to be filled while in operation. At least two regulators control the main flow of gas or liquid. One regulator controls the pressure in the liquid tank by controlling the flow from the pressure maintaining coil to the vapor space above the liquid in the receiver. The second regulates the flow and pressure to the customer's line by permitting liquid to enter the main vaporizer where it is converted to a gas and warmed for customer use.

These storage vessels are to be installed outdoors and are to be filled from approved tank trucks.

USE: The material is to be used as an acoustical and thermal insulation and as a component part of a four hour fire resistive floor construction.

DESCRIPTION: The material is the same as that previously approved by the Board under Calendar Nos. 633-55-SM, 139-58-SM and 138-58-SM and consists of a mixture of mineral fibers, asbestos and cementacious binders; the proportions of which are of a proprietary nature and are on file with the Board.

The fibers are applied by blowing them, along with a mist of water onto the surface which has been treated with a thin coat of latex type adhesive.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A floor and ceiling assembly was tested at the Underwriters' Laboratory of Canada in accordance with the requirements of Sections C26-588 to C26-590 and Sections C26-596 to C26-599 Administrative Building Code.

The cellular steel floor units used in the test were covered with 2½" of concrete measured from the top of the flutes of the floor units and the underside was protected with ½" of Cafco applied to follow the contour of the deck. The steel beam was protected by 1½" of Cafco applied directly to the contour of the beam after the beam had been prepared with the adhesive.

Both the beam and floor construction successfully met the requirements of a four hour fire resistive floor and ceiling construction. The report is on file with and is part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the test and the Rules for Test of Fire Resistive Materials.

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Max Kirsch, Inc. vs. Board:—On November 19, 1957, the Board denied an application under Section 7, subdivisions e and f of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a residence use district, the erection and maintenance of a gasoline service station, lubritorium, minor auto repairs, storage, offices and sales, car washing and parking and storage of motor vehicles: Cal. No. 125-57-BZ, Premises 9501-9515 Sea View Avenue and 1645-1655 East 95th Street, northeast corner, Borough of Brooklyn.

At Special Term, Supreme Court Kings County, Mr. Justice Brown remitted the case to the Board, saying in part: (N. Y. Law Journal, October 30, 1958, page 14):

"for reconsideration and the making of a new determination in proper form, with leave to all parties to submit such other and further proof before the board as they may be advised." The court expresses the opinion that the Board has not stated sufficient reasons for denying this application in view of two other gas stations granted within 400 ft."

This matter was restored to the docket by order of the Court and set for hearing on February 17, 1959. On March 31, 1959, the Board denied the application under Sections 7e and 7h of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a residence use district, the erection and maintenance of a gasoline service station, lubritorium, minor auto repairs, storage, offices and sales, car washing and parking and storage of motor vehicles.

On May 12, 1959 Petition and Order of Certiorari was served on the Board by Reginald S. Hardy, attorney for petitioner, owner, seeking a review of the Board's determination on March 31, 1959.

At Special Term, Supreme Court, Part I, Mr. Justice McDonald sustained the Board, order of certiorari vacated and petition dismissed. (New York Law Journal, May 19, 1960, page 14).

Negative: ..... 0

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

33-38-SM—Amendment to resolution as to omission of painting of structural steel.

The Aerocrete Corporation of America, requested that the resolution adopted July 16, 1940 and amended through November 10, 1953 be reopened and amended so as to eliminate the painting of structural steel that is used in conjunction with Gritcrete.

USE: A short span construction.

DESCRIPTION: There has been no change in the material or method of installation.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted reports of tests conducted by Prof. Crane of Yale University to determine the comparative corrosive action of cinder concrete and Gritcrete. The result showed that the loss of weight of the steel in cinder concrete was fifteen times as great as the loss of weight of the steel in the Gritcrete. A second series of tests were conducted on highly polished steel bars imbedded in cinder concrete, gravel concrete and Gritcrete and it was noted at the end of the test period that the steel imbedded in the Gritcrete showed that the degree of corrosive action is less than when the steel is imbedded in either gravel or cinder concrete. The complete reports are on file with and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the tests, the Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted July 16, 1940 and amended through November 10, 1953 under Calendar Number 33-38-SM be reopened and amended so as to permit the use of Gritcrete under the provisions of

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

181-51-SA—Reliable-Products Mfg. Co., Inc., Brooklyn, New York, filed for approval of the appliance known as Reliable Oil Preheater with non-contaminating control device under the provisions of the Oil Burner Rules of the Board. The application was subject to dismissal January 1957 but was removed from the dismissal list at the request of the applicant.

USE: To prevent contamination due to oil leak in a fuel oil preheater.

DESCRIPTION: The device is used in conjunction with a single tube, single shell heat exchanger direct to the boiler, below the water line or steam space of a boiler and its function is to detect tube oil failure within the exchanger and to prevent the oil from entering the boiler water through the primary heat connection from the boiler to the heat exchanger.

The control operates on the photo electric cell principle. When a failure occurs in the tube, the oil will rise to the top of the preheater and will travel and be baffled into the anti contaminating device within the baffles above the pilot light obstructing the rays of the pilot light to the electric photocell. When the photocell reacts to the rays of the pilot light it will cut off the oil burner and the oil pump and open a solenoid valve, which is an integral part of the control, which will relieve the oil to the waste instead of contaminating the boiler.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The device was tested by Ass't. Engr. J. A. Darts at the applicant's plant. Oil was introduced into the shell to simulate an oil leak and the control was tested and found to operate as designed.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the test and the data filed by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the Reliable Anti-Contaminating Control for voluntary use in New York City to be used in conjunction with an approved single shell, single tube preheater under the provisions of Rule 7.2.2 of the Oil Burner Rules of the Board, on condition that the device bear a label, permanently affixed, reading "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 181-51-SA". 165-58-SA—Continental Vending Machine Co., Division of Continental Industries, Inc., owner, filed March 27, 1958, for approval of Treat Pre-Mix "800" Coin Operated Carbonated Drink Vending Machine (3 flavors) under the provisions of Article 18, Chapter 19, Administrative Code.

USE: To automatically dispense cold pre-mixed beverages.

DESCRIPTION: The cabinet is made of heavy gauge sheet steel with adjustable legs, finished with baked enamel in a variety of colors. The interior of the cabinet is not insulated but the insulation around the mixing valve unit is 1½ inch thick styrofoam. The compressor unit is mounted inside the cabinet at the rear of the top section and supported on a steel shelf, welded to the cabinet body. The unit is secured to the shelf by through bolts. The compressor is totally enclosed with all parts protected by a wire mesh screen and louvers which allows air circulation through the cabinet back while preventing access to the moving parts. The pre-mix tanks are stainless steel with removable tops. These tanks are filled and/or refilled at authorized refilling bottlers such as Pepsi-Cola and Coca-Cola.

Pressure from a carbon dioxide tank forces the pre-mix beverage from its storage tank into a heat exchanger where its temperature is reduced to a pre-determined temperature. When the correct amount of coins are inserted, a relay trips a metering valve which in turn dispenses a measured quantity of liquid into a cup. To complete the cycle a portion of the liquid previously in the heat exchanger flows into the measuring valve, ready for the next vending cycle. The machine can be set for one or two drinks, and can serve either low or high carbonated drinks as shown below.

1. Three high carbonated.
2. Two high carbonated, and one low carbonated.
3. One high carbonated, and two low carbonated.

Refrigeration system consists of a hermetically sealed unit and the following components.

533-58-SM—Universal Atlas Cement Division, United States Steel Corp., owner, New York, N. Y., filed September 9, 1958 for approval of Universal Portland Slag Cement, Type IS, for use in New York City under the provisions of Sections C26-178.0, C26-191.0 and C26-312.o.c.2 of the Administrative Building Code and Rules Governing the use of Portland Blast Furnace Slag Cement.

USE: The material is a portland slag cement for use in structural concrete.

DESCRIPTION: Universal Portland Slag Cement, Type IS, can be used for the same purposes and types of concrete construction as Type I, non-air-entraining portland cement. Portland blast-furnace slag cement is the product obtained by intimately intergrinding a mixture of portland cement clinker and granulated blast-furnace slag. The amount of granulated blast-furnace slag used shall be such that the slag constituent makes up between 25 and 65 percent by weight of portland blast-furnace slag cement.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The plant of the applicant was inspected by Ass't. Architect T. W. Farricker, Committee on Test, Mr. John Stark, Chief Chemist of Plant and Mr. Robert Watson, representing the applicant.

Samples of the cement were identified and the samples were tested by the Haller Testing Laboratories, Inc., and successfully met the test requirements of ASTM C205-56T, and the revised ASTM Tentative Specification of 1957 and 1958, also the Rules of the Board Governing the Use of Portland Blast Furnace Slag Cement.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Universal Portland Slag Cement Type IS, as manufactured at the applicant's plant at Hudson, New York, for use in New York City on condition that each bag in which the material is marketed be stamped, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 533-58-SM" and when the cement is shipped in bulk the bills of lading shall be similarly marked.

USE: Cast iron soil pipe for drainage use.

DESCRIPTION: The pipe is made of gray iron casting by the centrifugal method. This method produces a pipe of close grained structure and having true concentricity and uniform wall thickness and through this centrifugal action, foreign matter and impurities are driven to the outer surface. The pipe is manufactured in accordance with the American Standard Specification ASA—A405-1943.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted reports of hydrostatic tests conducted by Pittsburg Testing Laboratory. The pipes were tested to 500 p.s.i. and in no case was there a leak. Negative: Vice Chairman Kleinert..... 1

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

570-59-SM—Peter Campbell Brown for Builders Research & Chemical Co., Denver, Colo., filed for approval of the material known as BP-58 Fire Retardant Primer & F-X36 Interior Fire Retardant Paint under the provisions of Sections C26-331.0 to C26-339.0 Administrative Building Code.

USE: A paint used to reduce the flame spread.

DESCRIPTION: The paint and primer are produced in ready to use form and the composition is of a proprietary nature. The applicant has not, to the present, supplied the Board with the formulation of the paint.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted an Underwriters' Laboratory report Retardant 4156 covering the flame spread rating and the toxicity of the gases produced. It will be noted that in all instances, in order to attain the rating achieved, it was necessary to apply the paint and primer to the specified coverage, namely to achieve a 10 flame spread, it was necessary to apply the primer at the rate of 170 sq. ft. per gallon and the paint to be applied in two coats at the rate of 80 sq. ft. per gallon per coat. It was also noted that the Underwriters stated that "this paint can be considered less durable than ordinary interior oil paint surfaces but will withstand some cleaning with a mild soap without scrubbing" which gives rise to the thought that this material may possibly leach out when there is a humid condition.

The applicant has also submitted a report of a test conducted by the United States Testing to show that the paint may be considered as incombustible under the definition as set forth under Section C26-88.0 Administrative Building Code.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the tests and the data filed by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as BP-58 Fire Retardant Primer and F-X36 Interior Fire Retardant Paint for voluntary use in New York City under the provisions of Section C26-191.0 Administrative Building Code as an interior paint, where ever paint is used.

The Committee is of the opinion that, while the test conducted by the United States Testing Co. showed that the material met the letter of Section C26-88.0 Administrative Building Code and could be classed as an incombustible material, they cannot state that the use of this paint on a combustible material will render the combustible material incombustible.

The Committee further recommends that the use of this paint be limited to interior application, that when this paint is to be used on interior combustible subdividing partitions as permitted under Section C26-667.0 Administrative Building Code, the manufacturer of the partition shall apply for approval of the partition so painted so that the Board may act on each specific manufacturer of the painted partition thereby insuring control as to coverage and the same requirement shall apply to manufacturers of fiber board acoustical tile who may wish to paint the surface of the tile with this primer and paint so as to comply with the permissive section of Rule 1.6 of the Fiber Board Rules of the Board and further each container in which this material is marketed shall be labeled "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 570-59-SM" and the limitations as herein set forth shall also be set forth on the label.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Vice Chairman Kleinert,

Commissioner Becker ..... 5

Negative: ..... 0

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
670-59-SA—Sperti Faraday Inc., Adrian, Michigan, filed for approval of the Sperti-Faraday Interior Fire Alarm System under the provisions of the Rules Governing The Installation of Interior Fire Alarm Signal Systems of the Board.

USE: An interior fire alarm system.

DESCRIPTION: This system consists of a control panel made up with trouble bell and light and other electrical components connected to a number of gong and box circuits for transmitting an alarm within a premise.

When any station is operated, the station code will ring on all gong circuits through an operating relay. Each gong circuit may be cut from panel operation by use of a knife switch identified by the particular gong circuit number. When a knife switch is thrown, a suitable resistance is transferred into the circuit to maintain supervision on other gong circuits. The panel meter circuit is broken simultaneously which rings the trouble bell through the panel circuit supervisory relay and also causes the panel meter to read zero.

If full operating current flows through the gong circuits continuously for more than 3 to 20 minutes a thermal cutout will operate releasing the gong circuit supervisory relay. The thermal cutout must be reset manually.

If an open circuit or ground occurs in either the box circuit or any gong circuit, the trouble bell will be caused to ring by the respective supervisory relay for that circuit. Should an open circuit occur in the operating relay coil or board circuit, the trouble bell will be caused to operate by the action of the board supervisory.

The trouble bell may be silenced by the trouble silencing switch which in turn will light the pilot light indicating trouble. In this silencing operation, when the trouble is cleared and the system restored to normal the trouble bell will re-ring as a reminder to return the silencing switch to its normal position.

Components are eyelet mounted on  $\frac{5}{8}$  inch thick ebony asbestos panel. The panel is encased in a heavy gauge metal enclosure provided with a lock and key. Conduit knock outs are provided on the sides and bottom of the cabinet and a glass panel in the door allows observation of panel meters.

Wiring diagram and instructions are fastened inside the cabinet door for use in test and maintenance.

The cabinet is finished in red enamel.

Supervisory relays are Wheelock Type PA-56573 Model C. as Junior Type B by the manufacturer.

The operating relay is Wheelock Type PA-56573 Model C. Arrow Hart and Hegeman Type CRA gravity drop industrial contactors with molded coil is proposed as an alternate operating relay.

The thermal time limit delay device is manufactured by Struthers Dunn Type PTAGI.

The switches are standard Trumbull Co. triple pole double throw open knife type modified by Sperti Faraday to accomplish the required make before break feature.

Meters are supplied by Simpson and/or Weston.

All resistors are front mounted and of the wire wound vitreous enamel type.

The box movement consists of a spring driven gear mechanism having a code wheel, signaling contacts and related parts assembled in a metal enclosure arranged with installation wiring terminals.

When the box mechanism is operated the signaling contacts are alternately opened and closed by the cam action of the Code wheel.

When the test key is inserted and turned in the direction marked "Silent Test" (clockwise) the cam follower is lifted from the code wheel allowing the mechanism to be operated as in normal signaling service without actuating the control equipment. When the test key is turned in the opposite direction, marked "Gongs", the test contacts are opened so that a single impulse for each test key movement is transmitted to the gongs through the control equipment. The test key must be held against spring tension in either position. When the key is released the spring retore all contacts to the normal condition.

Operating instructions are in raised cast-on letters or in letters engraved in plates.

Manufacturers nameplate and Faraday Trademark on door.

Tag provided to display B. S. & A. Calendar Number.

Stamped aluminum tag showing code of station on door.

The gong mechanism housing is of rugged cast aluminum assembled to the mechanism base plate with a watertight neoprene gasket. The housing and base plate are finished to conventional Fire Alarm red.

The gong is made of hot pressed steel,  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch thick at the skirt and is "parkarized" then painted for additional protection. The gongs are drilled and pinned at the center mounting hole to prevent loosening.

The back plate has universal mounting holes for all standard flush and surface back boxes.

Once installed, loosening (not removal) of a single screw allows the gong and mechanism assembly to be pivoted about its position hinge support, releasing the heavy brass terminals from the back plate socket and permits removal of the entire unit for service or immediate replacement.

The coil is wound with silk covered enameled copper on a thick nylon bobbin and is impregnated with a good electrical grade of anti-fungus varnish. Varnished cambric tubing protects the leads from coil to terminals.

All electrical spacings and insulation are in excess of minimum design requirements of Underwriters' Laboratory standards for this type device.

The plunger tube is of seamless stainless steel for long wear, corrosion resistance and reliability. Pole pieces are laminated for efficiency and are cadmium plated.

The plunger consists of a magnetic grade stainless steel body with a pressed fit non-magnetic stainless steel tip. The plunger mass and working magnetic gap of the mechanism have been optimized for maximum gong impact and minimum inrush current consistent with adequate accoustical volume.

The plunger stop is made of neoprene for durability.

Plate provided to display Board of Standards and Appeals Calendar Number.

These gongs are conservatively designed and will give full output with ten units in series on 110 Volt 60 cycle circuit. The steady state current under this condition is approximately 1.5 amperes although the inrush current is somewhat higher. In instances of fewer than seven gongs on a circuit a series resistor is provided on the control panel to limit current. Since this series resistance also limits the inrush current, the gongs are designed for safe temperature rise characteristics with current overloads up to 100%, which allows the series resistance to be adjusted to provide adequate inrush currents.

The trouble bell mechanism housing is cast of aluminum, and finished with baked red enamel. Four mounting holes are provided for surface mounting and a threaded entrance for 3/4 inch conduit is provided at one end. A knockout plug allows entrance from the back if concealed wiring is desired.

The drawn aluminum mechanism cover is assembled with a rubber gasket and is also finished in red.

A heavy cast cow gong is supplied to give the required loud and distinctive tone.

The mechanism is a permanent magnet AC vibrating type for efficiency and a minimum number of moving parts. The Alnico magnet is rigidly supported between laminated cadmium plated pole pieces. The plunger is of magnetic stainless steel with a non-magnetic stainless striker. The plunger tube is also of stainless steel for long life and corrosion resistance.

The coil is wound with silk enameled wire on a nylon bobbin, and is impregnated with anti-fungus varnish. Leads to the coil terminals are insulated with varnished cambric tubing. The heavy duty brass terminals are insulated and spaced in accordance with Underwriters' Laboratory requirements.

Also submitted for approval were one circuit and pre-signal systems similar to those approved by the Board under Calendar Number 402-27-SA, Models A, C, F, H, 5100, 5120 and Trouble Bell Model 2502.

INSPECTION AND TEST: This equipment was inspected and tested by Ass't. Engr. G. F. Sklenarik and Supervising Electrical Inspector William Mangan of the New York Fire Department.

The basic mechanism is listed by Underwriters' Laboratories under file Signal 424.

The requirements of the Board's Rules for interior alarms were adhered to in the design.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the inspection and test and the data submitted by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the Sperti-Faraday Interior Fire Alarm System for use in New York City under the provisions of Section 279 State Labor Law and Section 487 E2.0.c.i. Chapter 19, Administrative Code, provided that it will be installed in accordance with the Board's Rules Governing the Installation of Interior Fire Alarm Signal Systems and further provided that each control panel board, gong and station will bear a metal label indicating the model number and any electrical data as may be required and the words "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 670-59-SA".

The tanks are tested to 355 psi and are designed for a working pressure of 150 psi. An ASME rated relief valve is provided on the tank. Operating temperature is up to 180°F. and is adjustable by means of a mechanical snag acting control with 100% gas shut off.

The AS20-80A Model has a 19 gallon tank, and a hot water recovery rate of not less than 80 gallons per hour for a 100°F temperature rise. Heat input is 95,200 Btu per hour. The suffix B in the model designation indicates automatic circulating type for use with an extra tank.

The AS30-100 Models are similar to the AS20-80 except that the tank is of 30 gallon capacity, the recovery rate is 100 gallons per hour for a 100°F rise and the heat input is 120,000 Btu per hour.

The AST60-60 is an automatic storage water heater with an aluminum alloy tank tested to 355 psi and designed for a maximum working pressure of 150 psi. Insulation is 2 inches in thickness and maximum water temperature is 180°F. Its equipment is the same as for the AS20-80.

The AST60-60 has a tank capacity of 50 gallons, a recovery rate of not less than 60 gallons per hour for a 100°F rise and a heat input of 71,500 Btu per hour.

The 300A and 500A Model water heaters are multi-coil type heaters intended for use with auxiliary storage tanks. The coils are made of 15 gauge copper and tested to 355 psi for a maximum working pressure of 150 psi. The burners used are of the atmospheric type with drilled ports and equipped with safety pilot. A pressure relief valve, aquastat and temperature control are provided. The enclosing jacket is insulated with 2 inches of fibreglas.

The model 300A has a recovery rate of 240 gallons per hour for a 100°F temperature rise with a heat input of 285,000 Btu per hour. The Model 500A has a recovery rate of 387 gallons per hour for 100°F rise with a heat input of 460,000 Btu per hour.

The Model 5CFA and 5PFA water heaters are multi-coil types using finned copper coils and with all waterways of copper and brass. The burners are bunsen type of heavy gauge with raised ports and porcelain enamel finished. The burners are provided with safety pilots.

The 5CFA is an automatic instantaneous type water heater that will supply hot water continuously. When a hot water outlet is opened the flowing water actuates controls to release gas to the main burner where it is ignited by the constant burning pilot flame. When hot water outlets are closed, the controls shut off flow of gas to the burner when the maximum temperature setting is reached.

Hot water recovery is 168 gallons per hour for a 100°F temperature rise and heat input is 200,000 Btu per hour.

The 5PFA Model is designed for connection to a separate storage tank using a high velocity pump for forced water circulation. A pressure relief valve is installed in the line. In other respects the 5PFA water heater closely resembles the 5CFA and the hot water recovery is also 168 gallons per hour for a 100°F rise with heat input 200,000 Btu per hr.

All water heaters listed in this report are to be connected to a legal chimney or flue, in accordance with Article 12, Administrative Building Code.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The data submitted was examined by Ass't. Engr. G. F. Sklenarik.

All heaters have been tested and approved by the American Gas Association.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the data submitted, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the Ruud Commercial gas Fired Water Heaters, Models AS20-80A, AS20-80B, AS-30-100, AS30-100A, AST60-60, AST80-80, AST-100-100, AST95-150, AST-90-200, AST75-300, 300A, 500A, 5CFA and 5PFA for use in New York City under the provisions of Article 12, Administrative Building Code provided that each water heater shall bear a label, permanently affixed reading "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 874-59-SA".

57-60-SM—Seelye, Stevenson, Value & Knecht for Granco Steel Products filed for approval of the material Corruform under the provisions of Sections C26-191.0 and C26-239.0 Administrative Building Code.

USE: A component part of a four hour fire resistive floor and/or roof construction.

DESCRIPTION: The material Corruform was approved by the Board under Calendar Number 734-54-SM and the approved material is now used as a part of an assembly consisting of steel joists, Corruform, a ceiling of vermiculite gypsum plaster on wire lath and a concrete floor on top of the Corruform. The construction of the floor assembly was as follows: The steel joists spaced 2'-0" on center were braced by ½ inch round bars welded to the top and bottom chords of the joists. The Corruform sheets were then placed on top of the joists with an overlap of 0'-6" and the sheets were then welded to the joists and to each other with washers on 2'-0" centers in a diamond pattern. A wire fabric, 0'-6" x 0'-6" x 10 gauge wire is then placed over the forms to act as a reinforcing mesh in the concrete. The concrete is then poured to a depth of 0'-2½" as measured from the bottom of the corrugated steel sheets. Furring channels, placed 1'-2" on centers, are wire tied to the bottom flanges of the joists and the metal lath is then attached to the furring channels by means of tie wire. The vermiculite gypsum plaster is applied in two coats to the face of the lath; the scratch coat consists of 2 cu. ft. of vermiculite to 100 lbs. of gypsum, and the brown coat 2 cu. ft. of vermiculite to 100 lbs. of gypsum. The average thickness of plaster over the face of the lath is 0'-0-¾".

INSPECTION AND TEST: A floor system constructed as herein described was tested at the Underwriters' Laboratory in accordance with the requirements of Sections C26-588.0 through C26-590.0 and C26-609.0 Administrative Building Code. ### THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
301-60-SM—United States Gypsum Company, Chicago, Illinois, filed an application for approval of their U. S. Gypsum Company Metal Stud Gypsum Drywall Partition and accessories under the provisions of the following sections of the Administrative Code: C26-88, C26-178, C26-191, C26-239 to C26-245 inclusive for 1 and 2 hour, C26-635 for 2 hour, C26-636 for 1 hour, C26-638 for 1 and 2 hour, C26-639 for 1 and 2 hour, C26-646 for 1 and 2 hour, and C26-667.0.5 for 1 hour for classes of construction.

USE: For incombustible walls and partitions in offices and dwellings and where a 1 hour or 2 hour incombustible fire resistive ratings are required.

DESCRIPTION: The USG Metal Stud Gypsum Drywall Partition is a non-load bearing partition consisting of roll formed galvanized steel studs (24 gauge), floor and ceiling runners, U. S. Gypsum Company Gypsum Drywall Sheets, U. S. Gypsum Company Sheetrock (previously approved under Cal. No. 486-39-SM) or U. S. Gypsum Company Firecode Sheetrock (previously approved under Cal. No. 486-39-SM), and a patented exclusive self-drilling, self-tapping flat head screw, U. S. Gypsum Drywall Screws applied with a power driven screw gun which has depth limits and clutch release.

MINUTES

The gypsum boards are secured to the steel studs by the power driven screws.

The steel studs are designed to nest at the ends for splicing and are fastened together with the same U. S. Gypsum Drywall Screws. The steel studs have cut-outs at each end and at intermediate points for snaking phone and electric cables and conduit or for inserting additional bracing members.

The studs, nominally on 24" centers for all thicknesses of gypsum board except  $\frac{3}{8}$ ", when they are 16" on centers, are secured to the floor and ceiling runner track by snapping into place.

The studs are secured to hollow metal doorbucks or other frames by bolting or screwing to the metal anchors of the frame.

U. S. Gypsum DWC Furring Channel, a hat-shaped rolled steel shape, incombustible, may be used where gypsum drywall sheets are used to fur a wall, and may also be used for carrying channels where the partitions are fastened to a hung ceiling.

Various bases are available including, but not limited to, rubber cove moulding, plastic, asphalt, USG Hardboard, or Treated Hardboard, USG Metal Snap-On Base (previously approved under Cal. No. 257-39-SM—Vol. II) and USG Recessed Metal Base, and USG Flush Metal Base.

All inside corners, joints, and screw heads are treated with USG Perf-A-Tape Joint System, tape and cement, or cement. Outside corners are treated with USG Durabead or Perf-A-Bead. All of these have been previously approved under Calendar Number 486-39-SM.

Metal Component Parts

The USG Metal Studs are furnished in depths of  $1\frac{5}{8}$ ",  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ", and  $3\frac{5}{8}$ ". The face surface of all sizes of studs is  $1\frac{5}{16}$ ". Lengths are up to, and including, 16'. There are cut-outs in the web to pass conduits and wires. They are rolled forms.

The USG Floor and Ceiling Runners are  $\frac{1}{8}$ " less wide than the stud size used with it. They are rolled forms.

The USG DWC Furring Channel (Dry Wall Channel) is a rolled form.

The USG Snap-On Base, the flush base and the recessed base, are rolled steel sections.

The USG Drywall Screws are specially designed oil tempered and hardened sheet metal screws. They have a self-drilling point, are self-tapping, have a radius contour head with Phillips screw grooves. When properly driven with the power screw gun with depth limit clutch release, they produce a board surface depression without breaking the paper, suitable for proper "spotting" with Perf-A-Tape Cement.

The Gypsum Drywall Sheets are  $\frac{3}{8}$ ",  $\frac{1}{2}$ ",  $\frac{5}{8}$ " or thicker USG Sheetrock or  $\frac{1}{2}$ ",  $\frac{5}{8}$ " or thicker USG Firecode Sheetrock previously approved under Calendar Number 486-39-SM. Double layers of any combination of thicknesses may be applied to the studs by screw fastening the first layer, and cementing a second layer, or by screw fastening both layers with proper length screws.

USG Baxbord, a gypsum drywall board, previously approved under Cal. No. 486-39-SM, either standard type or Firecode Type can be used instead of Sheetrock for the concealed layer in two layer construction.

All Gypsum Drywall sheets applied by screws may be readily removed by reversing the drive of the screw gun.

Limiting Height

| USG Metal Stud Size | Maximum Partition Height |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| $1\frac{5}{8}$      | 9'                       |
| $2\frac{1}{2}$      | 12'                      |
| $3\frac{5}{8}$      | 16'                      |

INSPECTION AND TEST: The partition was subjected to a fire and hose stream test at Ohio State Project T-1175 and successfully passed a one hour test. Construction was as follows:

One hour— $3\frac{5}{8}$ " USG Metal Studs, 24" o.c., set in the DWR-358 Runner floor and ceiling, with single layer  $\frac{5}{8}$ " SHEETROCK FIRECODE (U. L. Listed) attached each side with 1" self-driving USG Drywall screws 12" on centers on the concealed Stud, and 8" Center to center at vertical joints of each board. Screw heads and face joints were treated with Perf-A-Tape Joint System.

The partition was subjected to a fire and hose stream test at Underwriters' Laboratory and successfully passed a 2 hour test. Construction was as follows:

Two Hour— $3\frac{5}{8}$ " USG Metal Studs, 24" on center set in the DWR-358 Runner floor and ceiling, double layer  $\frac{5}{8}$ " SHEETROCK FIRECODE (U. L. Listed) applied each side; base layer screw attached with 1" USG Screws—Type S, Power-driven and spaced 12" C. to C. on the concealed stud, and 8" C. to C. at vertical joints of each board, face layer laminated with Perf-A-Tape Cement; face layer joints treated with Perf-A-Tape Joint System.

The partition constructed in accordance with the one hour fire test construction, was tested by Riverbank Laboratories and rated 39 decibel average sound transmission loss.

The metal accessories and assembly were examined by the Board and found to be as described.

Test reports are in the file and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: Based on the data submitted, and the tests conducted, the Committee on Test recommends that USG Metal Stud Gypsum Drywall Partition consisting of a single layer of  $\frac{5}{8}$ " Sheetrock Firecode attached each side of U. S. Gypsum Company Metal Studs 24" on centers, by 1" USG Self-driving Drywall Screws, as described under the 1 hour test shall be approved as a 1 hour incombustible fire resistive partition for all classes of construction and that a USG Metal Stud Gypsum Drywall Partition consisting of two layers of  $\frac{5}{8}$ " Sheetrock Firecode applied to each side of U. S. Gypsum Company Metal Studs 24" on centers as described under the 2 hour test shall be approved as a 2 hour incombustible fire resistive partition for all classes of construction under Calendar Number 301-60-SM".

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the decision of the Borough Superintendent, dated February 24, 1960 on Alt. Applic. 904-59, reads:

"A2. Transient garage as proposed on this application is contrary to Sect. 4A of the zoning resolution and Sect. 60.1b M.D.L."

and
WHEREAS, the applicant states that the building is 150 feet 5 inches by 150 feet 1 inch, irregular in area, 14 floors and pent house, 134 feet 3 inches high, of class 1 construction, located in retail use, B area, class 1½ height district, built in 1958, now used and occupied since 1958 as follows: cellar-boiler room, storage, tenants' laundry, superintendent's workshop, locker room, accessory use to restaurant and garage for 51 motor vehicles, 20 persons; 1st floor—restaurant, stores, one doctor's office and garage for 42 motor vehicles, 140 persons; 2nd to 14th floors and pent house, apartments; in accordance with Certificate of Occupancy #49128, issued June 4, 1958 against N. B. Applic. 33-55; that the proposed use and occupancy will be the same except for the garage use; and

WHEREAS, the applicant states that the construction of the garage conforms to all of the requirements of the Administrative Code and the Multiple Dwelling Law; that an inspection of the operating records kept by the owner of the building disclosed that the garage was occupied as follow:

|                                                                            |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Cars belonging to tenants in the building                                  | 36 |
| Cars belonging to non-tenants, but stored for periods in excess of 30 days | 25 |
| Total                                                                      | 61 |

that of the total 93 car spaces available in the building, only 61 are in use; that there are 32 car spaces available for transient parking without in any way interfering with the opportunity for the tenants of the building to avail themselves of the parking facilities; that East 55th Street is a heavily travelled west bound street; that in fact, except for 57th Street, it is the first west bound street below East 60th Street which accounts for the extra heavy traffic on this street; that traffic does not clear the block between traffic light intervals, so that very often the entire block is traffic clogged to the point of obstructing north-south traffic on Third Avenue; that were these parking facilities available to the general public, the street parking which is now permitted could be prohibited and the traffic flow freed-up; that on 55th Street near Park Avenue there is a garage which is accessory to the 31 story office building which is known as 425 Park Avenue; that there are also public garages with transient parking at 202-18 East 55th Street and 217-229 East 55th Street, so that East 55th Street is not without parking but which seems to be inadequate as these garages often hang out the "FULL" signs during the day; that it is therefore requested that the Board grant permission for the use of the surplus parking space for transient parking for the following reasons: that the parking facilities which are clearly needed are here available, and their use would eliminate the waste of leaving perfectly good unused parking space; that it will serve to benefit the general welfare by alleviating the traffic problem which is now a factor on East 55th Street; and

WHEREAS, the premises were inspected by a committee of the Board, which recommended that the appeal be granted under certain conditions.

Resolved, that the decision of the Borough Superintendent, acting on Alt. App. 904-59, Objection No. A2, dated February 24, 1960, be and it hereby is modified under the powers vested in the Board by Section 310 of the Multiple Dwelling Law, and that the appeal be and it hereby is granted, on condition that the requirements of the resolution adopted by the Board this day under Cal. No. 742-59-BZ shall be met; that all laws, rules and regulations shall be complied with; and that a certificate of occupancy shall be obtained.

476-44-SM—Vol. IV—Amendment as to additional method of construction of fire proof partition.

United States Gypsum Company, Chicago, Illinois, requested by letter April 6, 1954, that the resolution adopted November 28, 1944, under Calendar Number 476-44-SM and amended at various times for a 2" Solid Rocklath and Plaster Partition be reopened and amended for an additional method of construction.

It was reopened by the Board under Volume IV on May 4, 1954.

USE: For walls and partitions in offices and dwellings where a 1 hour incombustible non-load bearing 1 hour fire rated wall or partition is required in all classes of construction.

DESCRIPTION: The additional method of construction consists of using a core of 1" thick USG Rocklath Plaster Base, consisting of two 1/2" layers mill-laminated with 3/4" ship-lap edge on the vertical or long edge. These 1" panels are fitted closely together and held in position by nailing or otherwise locking the adjacent ship lapped edged together at least 3 times in a distance of 9 foot 10 inch ceiling height.
The panels rest in an incombustible floor and ceiling runner and are stapled, wire tied, or clipped to same.

To this plaster base is applied on each side 1/2" of sanded gypsum plaster including the white coat. Plaster applied in accordance to C26-464.0.

The metal component parts consist of one piece base and screed, or L-shaped ceiling runner with hair pin clips, or USG Metal Base and clip system, all previously approved.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The test partition was erected to a height of 9 feet 10 inches. It was subjected to a 1 hour Fire and Hose Stream Test in accordance with ASTM Designation E 119 as required under Article 11, Fire Resistive Construction, of the Administrative Code. It successfully withstood the 1 hour Fire and Hose Stream Test at Ohio State University as reported in Test Report T-1340.
Test Reports are on file with and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: Based on the data submitted and the tests conducted the Committee on Test recommends that USG 2" Solid Rocklath and Plaster Partition constructed as tested and consisting essentially of a 1" thick ship lapped long length Rocklath core, plastered on each side with 1/2" of sanded plaster including the finish coat, be approved as a 1 hour fire rated incombustible partition 10'-0" unbraced height for all classes of construction providing all previous requirements of the resolution under Calendar Number 476-44-SM as adopted November 28, 1944 and subsequently amended on June 11, 1946, April 15, 1947, and July 22, 1947, are complied with.

of assembly.

W. W. Bainbridge, for the United States Gypsum Company, requested by letter that the resolution adopted October 13, 1948 under Calendar Number 898-47-SM be reopened and amended so as to include additional methods of assembly.
USE: The assembly of gypsum boards shall be used for partitions.

DESCRIPTION: The gypsum boards, Sheetrock, Baxbord, and Coreboard, either plain, insulating or Firecode type and accessories shall be as previously approved under Calendar Number 486-39-SM, Calendar Number 171-52-SM and Calendar Number 898-47-SM, together with some new minor accessories.

2" Thick Solid Sheetrock Partition—1 1/2 Hour: The core shall consist of 1" thick monolithic Sheetrock, Baxbord or Coreboard with tongue and groove V-edge on the long sides.
In use this is secured in position by USG Core centering clips or other means. To this is applied by adhesive on each side a layer of 1/2" Gypsum board. All joints are staggered.

The applicant rates it incombustible 1 1/2 hour fire resistive and 35 decibel sound transmission loss.

2" Thick Solid Sheetrock Partition—2 Hour: The partition is identical with the 1 1/2 hour partition except that the outer layers of 1/2" gypsum board are of the Firecode type or Type X Gypsum board.

The applicant rates it incombustible 2 Hour fire resistive and 35 decibel sound transmission loss.

Double Solid Core Walls—2 Hour: Where necessary to separate the two sides of the gypsum partition in order to enclose pipes or ducts, each side of the space consists of one layer of 1" thick monolithic Sheetrock, Baxbord or Core-board with tongue and groove V-edge, to which is applied by adhesive on the outside face a layer of 1/2" Gypsum board. All joints are staggered. The air space between panels must be at least one inch.

The applicant rates this as incombustible two hour fire resistive and 46 decibel sound transmission loss.

The assemblies have all inside corners sealed with USG Perf-A-Tape Joint System and all exterior corners protected by USG Durabead or Perf-A-Bead. Exposed edges may be finished with USG Perf-A-Trim or Metal Trim, all previously approved.

Standard Hollow Metal door bucks and other framed openings, all with special metal anchors in the frame to receive the gypsum boards, are used. Sheet metal angles or channels for floor and ceiling runners are included as well as USG Metal base previously approved and USG Flush Metal base and trim, and USG recessed metal base.

Other bases in common use are cove rubber, cove asphalt, asbestos cement strip, or USG Hardboard.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The 2" thick Solid Sheetrock (1½ Hour) partition was fire and hose stream tested at Ohio State University in accordance with ASTM Designation E-119 and failed at 1 hour and 59 minutes by limiting temperature rise at one point. It is rated 1½ hour fire resistive.

The 2" thick Solid Sheetrock (2 hour) partition was fire and hose stream tested at Ohio State University in accordance with E-119 and failed at 2 hour and 2 minutes by limiting temperature rise at one point. It is rated 2 hour fire resistive.

The double solid core wall or pipe shaft was fire and hose stream tested at Ohio State University in accordance with ASTM Designation E-119 and failed at 2 hours and 11 minutes by emission of gas at one point.

A partition consisting of 1" gypsum core with 5/8" gypsum boards adhesively applied to each side was tested at the Riverbank Acoustical Laboratories and was rated 36 decibel average loss over the 11 frequency points.

The double solid core wall or pipe shaft was similarly tested and rated 46 decibels with the minimum 1" air space.

The details of construction and copies of all test reports are on file with, and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted October 13, 1948 under Calendar Number 898-47-SM be reopened and amended so as to include approval of USG 2" thick Solid Sheetrock 1½ hour partition and USG 2" thick Solid Sheetrock 2 hour partition and USG Double Solid Core Wall or Pipe Shaft 2 hour partition for 1½, and 2 hours incombustible fire resistive rating in the order given, providing each is assembled in the manner and of the materials described for each assembly tested, and that the approved USG metal accessories, adhesives incidental to the assembly be used, including Metal Base. Recessed Metal Base, DWB Flush base and trim, floor and ceiling runners and USG Core Spacer Slip.

The Committee on Test further recommends that these incombustible non-load-bearing partitions may be used in all classes of construction in accordance with their respective fire resistive ratings.

The Committee on Test further recommends that all plans requiring the use of these partitions shall be partition construction "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 898-47-SM." ## THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

464-52-SA—Melchoir, Armstrong, Dessau Co. of Delaware Inc., Ridgefield, New Jersey, filed for approval of the Melco Oxygen Tent, Models 262, 262F and 360 under the provisions of Article 18, Chapter 19 and Section C26-191.0 Administrative Code.

USE: Portable units designed to supply cooled air and oxygen to a tent or canopy.

DESCRIPTION: These units are made up with a small standard type refrigerating system properly arranged to cool the atmosphere of an oxygen tent.

The exterior cabinet is of .05" aluminum sheet mounted on a 20 ga. steel base. The complete unit is carried on 4 rubber tired casters. An instrument panel on the cabinet provides for an electric switch to operate the unit, a temperature control and a temperature indicator.

The refrigerating system consists of a sealed compressor, air-cooled condenser, capillary refrigerant control and a finned copper cooling coil. The refrigerant charge is 20 oz. of F-12. The Models 262 and 262F employ a  $\frac{1}{4}$  hp. compressor motor; the Model 360, a  $\frac{1}{3}$  hp. compressor motor.

The 262 and 360 models are designed for cycling operation and go on and off automatically as required to maintain the desired temperature.

The Model 262F operates continuously and maintains desired temperature by use of a solenoid by-pass valve in the refrigerant line which serves to bypass the refrigerant from the capillary tube when temperature reaches the low setting of the temperature control on the instrument panel.

The air and oxygen circulating system on all models consists of a sealed aluminum compartment in which is installed the evaporator coil and an aluminum blower fan. Provision is made for draining of condensate from the evaporator coil to a suitable pan through an "S" shaped trap in the condensate tubing. Each oven shall be equipped with gas burning equipment approved for such use and with electrical controls so arranged as to shut off the gas valve when ignition fails or the gas supply pressure drops to 2 inches of water.

The use of a continuous gas pilot light is prohibited unless an automatic gas shut off valve is provided which will shut the gas off at the pilot light when the flame is extinguished or the supply of gas cut off. Electrical pilot ignition shall be of the continuous type or equal in performance, designed for use in high temperatures, with controls so interlocked as to shut off the gas supply when current is interrupted. An auxiliary manually operated gas shut off valve shall be located not nearer than 25 feet from the oven so as to control the gas supply in the event of an emergency. Such ovens shall be adequately insulated on all sides and top to limit the maximum surface temperature to 140°F and to 160°F on the base, unless the floor is protected by a 3 inch mat of reinforced concrete placed over and bonded into the existing concrete floor and projecting not less than 6 inches outside the projected area of the equipment or unless an unenclosed clear air space not less than 4 inches above the concrete floor is maintained between the floor and the underside of the oven.

When equipped with duct ventilating system, the Infra-Red Ray Oven shall be adequately secured so as to prevent moving.

4.3.2.1.2 Where the evaporation of a considerable amount of flammable vapors are involved, ventilated hoods located as near to the floor as practicable or enclosures shall be provided at the initial stage of the process with adequate exhaust system to discharge the primary evaporation from the solvents to the outer air, so that when the processed material progresses through the lamp drying tunnels only a comparatively small amount of solvent is left for evaporation. A space between such ventilating section and the drying section shall be maintained.

4.3.2.1.3 Lamps and other electrical equipment shall be kept free from flammable deposits and adequate cleaning shall be maintained.

4.3.2.1.4 Lamp and resistance heater type drying units shall be separated from spraying and dipping processes complying with these rules by a distance of at least 15 feet or shall be installed in a separate fireproof room.

4.3.2.1.6 Where there are no conveyors and the material being processed is left stationary in the dryer there shall be an excessive temperature switch to shut off the lamps or resistance heaters to avoid overheating the material being processed if it is not removed from the dryer in time.

4.3.2.1.7 Material to be processed on the conveyors shall be rigidly supported so as not to be liable to displacement and cause lamp breakage and short circuits. Where there are no conveyors, materials should be fixed on dollies running on tracks or other equivalent method to accomplish the same result.

4.3.3 The temperature of the air contacting the processed material or of the material itself shall not be higher than that to which such material can be safely subjected.

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

RULES

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.

MONITORS will at all times see that those under their charge conduct themselves in a respectable and orderly manner.

Rule 9. Holding of Drills.

FIRE DRILLS shall be held at least once each month at varied hours of the day, and all of the occupants shall participate therein simultaneously. Such drills shall conduct all occupants to a place of safety.

Where dual operation interior fire alarm systems are installed as permitted under Rule 10.1 of the interior fire alarm rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals, the fire drill conducted each month shall include all of the persons on the premises engaged at work for a factory, and drills shall be conducted at least twice, each year in which all of the persons on the premises shall participate simultaneously.

Rule 10. Duties of Owner.

It shall be the duty of the OWNER, LESSEE OR TENANT OF THE BUILDING or his authorized agent or their representatives to personally observe that the "Fire Drill" is held simultaneously on every floor of the building and the participation therein of every occupant of such building. Any FIRE DRILL in which all of the occupants do not participate shall not be considered as complying with the LAW, except as otherwise provided in these rules.

The person or persons representing the OWNERS, LESSEE OR TENANT, who supervises the FIRE DRILL at the building shall submit to an examination by the Division of Fire Prevention as to their experience and general fitness for such duties, and shall be so certified in writing by the FIRE COMMISSIONER.

It shall be the duty of the ENGINEER, SUPERINTENDENT or other PERSON IN CHARGE of a building having an interior fire alarm system to test such system daily immediately after the beginning of business, and to see that all apparatus operated by springs, requiring winding are rewound after each alarm and kept in normal condition for operation.

Rule 11. Duties of Engineer.

Whenever it is necessary to test the fire alarm system at any other time of the day, owing to repairs, etc., being made, the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING will first notify all Foremen of the several floors of the intended test and likewise notify them when the repairs, etc. are completed. This precaution is taken to prevent confusion and excitement, also misunderstanding of the alarm signals.

It shall also be the duty of the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING to sound the interior alarm system at irregular intervals, but not less than once each calendar month, for the purpose of holding practice fire drills. He shall keep on the premises a record of such drills, showing the date when held and the required time for all occupants to reach the street or a point of safety outside the building.

The PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING must immediately acquaint new tenants of the existence of the "Fire Drill" Organization and its purport.

Rule 12. Registration.

The name and address of every person, corporation or co-partnership, that will, under professional service, carry on the trade, business or calling of establishing, maintaining or supervising the "Fire Drill" shall be registered in the Fire Department, which Department shall, upon evidence of fitness, grant a certificate to that effect.
